Statement to Customers - GDPR

The legislation of the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) comes into effect on the 25th May 2018.

It is intended to extend additional protection for individuals, companies and their data, providing greater transparency and control over where their data is saved and used.

With this in mind we, are producing this statement to advise how we collect and process your data.

We hold on file for ongoing use (where appropriate) information on our customers, this information includes everything we need to process your orders such as trading name, addresses and contact phone numbers.

We may also hold contact details for key personnel so that we can fulfil your orders effectively.

Where we keep personal data we do this to maintain a trading relationship and do not pass any of this information to third parties with the exception of delivery details and site contacts which may be shared with subcontractor hauliers in order to ensure smooth execution of delivery.

Our paperwork which will include your paper purchase orders is kept under standard document retention laws and is destroyed thereafter. Documentation is securely stored, and our database is password protected.

We have reviewed where and how we collect, use and store personal data and we are updating policies, standards, training and documentation where required. We are working to ensure the accuracy of personal data and enabling it to be erased or rectified in accordance with our obligations. Our aim is to limit the use and storage of personal data wherever possible.

If you have dealt with us at any point and do not want your details to be held please let us know and we will safely and securely remove your from our database.
